SubRHNA Methodology

The SubRHNA methodology determines the distribution of housing units and affordability levels that must be planned for by each local jurisdiction: Solano County, the Cities of Benicia, Vallejo, Suisun City, Fairfield, Vacaville, Rio Vista, and Dixon.

Based on data from the California Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD), the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) has provided the Solano Subregion with a draft allocation of units by affordability level. The SubRHNA methodology will describe the method for how the units are to be distributed among the local jurisdictions by applying possible factors such as proximity to jobs, transit, etc. The methodology will be developed by the Solano Subregion in consultation with its member jurisdictions and stakeholders. The SubRHNA covers an eight-year planning period of June 2022 through December 2030.
